

Board Briefing Paper: NHS Midlands and East Provider Management Programme

Progress with Six Learning Disability Criteria Action plan

Author Graeme Mitchell August 2012

Background

The trust is required provide monthly returns to the NHS Midlands and East SHA as part of the Provider Management Regime, this requires the trust to self assess our performance and report on a number of key governance domains and provide a risk rating for those domains.

The three key domains are:

- Governance risk rating
- Financial risk rating
- Contractual risk rating

Governance

The trust is required to provide assurance by self certification that we will deliver compliance with the six criteria regarding access to healthcare for people with a learning disability (Governance risk rating No.17). This obligation to certify compliance was originally required of the trust in 2010. The Chief Nurse had reported to the board during May and June board meeting, that the action plan to deliver compliance would achieve its objective by October 2012.

The lead for delivery on this action plan is the Associate Director of Patient Quality and Experience, Graeme Mitchell.

Assessment

Risks to achieving compliance by deadline October 2012

The Associate Director of Patient Quality and Experience has provided regular updates as to progress via an action plan which has been reported to and monitored by the Chief Nurse Vicky Morris and by the Patient Engagement and Involvement Panel (PEIP).

During the monitoring process it became apparent that the biggest risk to achieving compliance would be the provision of an alert on the trust PAS system, SEMA Helix. This alert tag could identify a patient as having a learning disability and thus inform trust staff that the individual may need additional reasonable adjustments made to the delivery of the plan of care.

The Associate Director of Quality and Patient experience was originally told that the alert would not be able to be actioned until early 2013 as the activation of the alert could only be made when the national system was updated. Following further discussion, we are now able to activate the alert immediately.

To implement the use of this alert a users guide has been sent out to all clinical centre leads, business managers and patient access team leads to inform their clinical teams of the process of activating the alert. The user guide has been uploaded to the LD section of the intranet and an article will follow in August edition of "Putting Patients First".

Negotiations with the community partners will deliver an innovative programme whereby LD service users who are at risk have been asked if they would like their details placed on SEMA in advance of them accessing the trust.

Progress with the other five criteria is being tracked and updated by regular meetings with the teams involved in delivering the action plan:

- Trust Clinical audit team
- Community adult learning disability team lead
- Trust Vulnerable Adult lead nurse
- Communications team
- Clinical centres – via centre performance reviews

Ongoing assurance processes

- An audit of use of the LD alert will be undertaken in September 2012 when the SEMA alert has become more established
- LD patients accessing maternity services have alert placed on MEDWAY system audit will take place in September 2012
- Patient services team and PALS produce activity logs of LD patients accessing these services which are reported to Q&S committee via monthly report. Themes and or trends are triangulated at High Risk Scrutiny Group which meets weekly. LD activity will also be included in quarterly PST/PALS report to CQR report to Commissioners.
- PEIP LD member will be involved in the investigation of complaints concerning LD service users
- Training attendance logs are kept for LD links nurses will be reported via Q&S report
- Audit of consent for LD patients and use of SEMA alert will report during September and the findings disseminated to the clinical centres.
- Community Learning Disability Team will provide training in LD customer awareness to front line Outpatient staff

Conclusion

The current action plan is expected to allow the trust to declare compliance with Patient Experience Indicator No. 17 by October 2012. An updated version of the action plan is attached for information. Assurance on compliance will be provided in a board paper and presentation in the October board meeting. Assurance will be provided against each criteria with the requisite, processes, policies or standard operating provided.
